

Children's growth is every parent's concern.

How can they grow up confidently and comfortably?

- If children cry when parents are out of sight, should parents respond to them or ignore them?
- Children often behaved timid when being not familiar with the environments. How should parents help them adapt to the situations?
- When children are reluctant to try new things, should parents enforce them or let them decide?
- How to bring up a confident but not arrogant child?

We still have many questions to share with you.

Don't miss the talk and do come!
